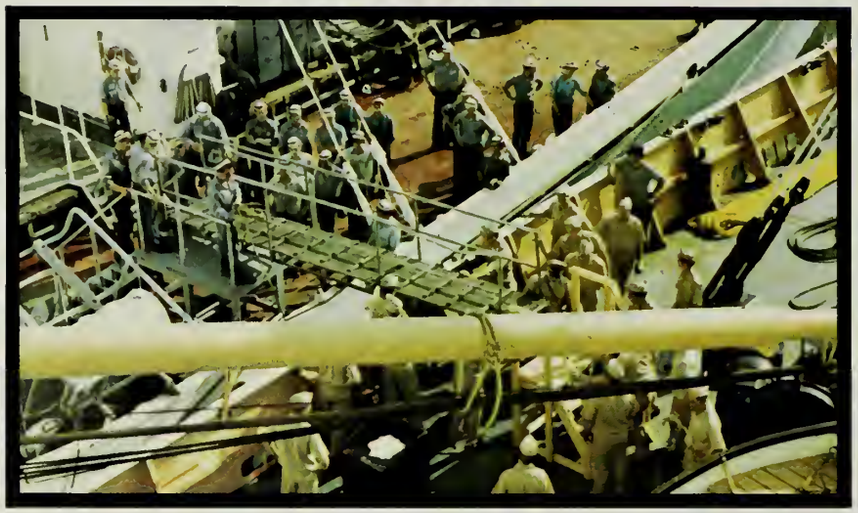
MASSACHUSETTS MARITIME ACADEMY
1891

Writing about our cruise experiences was not as easy as we thought it would be. Incidents we wanted to remember were forgotten, and there were some we consciously wanted to forget. Happily, the recall of other times flowed readily from our minds, along with the joy of the memory.

Our fourth class cruise was unlike our subsequent cruises: we departed and returned on time. Our first port of call was St. George, Bermuda, where Operation Sail '76 was to begin for us. Joining us there were tall ships from around the world, arriving to take part in celebration of America's 200th birthday. This gave us our first opportunity to board foreign ships and meet cadets from other countries — this in addition to enjoying Bermuda's scenery and hospitality.

The Bay state was communications vessel for the tall ships race from Bermuda to Newport, R.I. In Newport, it became evident what was in store for us on the cruise. We were placed far from the center of activities, much to our disappointment. Those who lived near elected to go home on their leave time. It was also obvious that our prestige was lower because of the presence of the tall ships. We were particularly upset when not allowed to participate in the Monomoy race, since we had supplied all the boats and trained so hard for the event.

Our arrival in New York for the Fourth of July celebration was equally disappointing. We docked in Bayonne, New Jersey, hours away from where the action was: The Big Apple. On the Fourth, the Bay State was the review ship for the tall ships parade up the Hudson. Some of us who had liberty elected to spend the day at the Jersey shore or in the pandemonium of New York City. The 4th class cadets who stayed aboard, on duty or not, had a choice between hiding down below, thus missing the parade, or mingling with the guests on deck, thus running the risk of ending up waiting on them. In any event, it was a day we will always cherish.



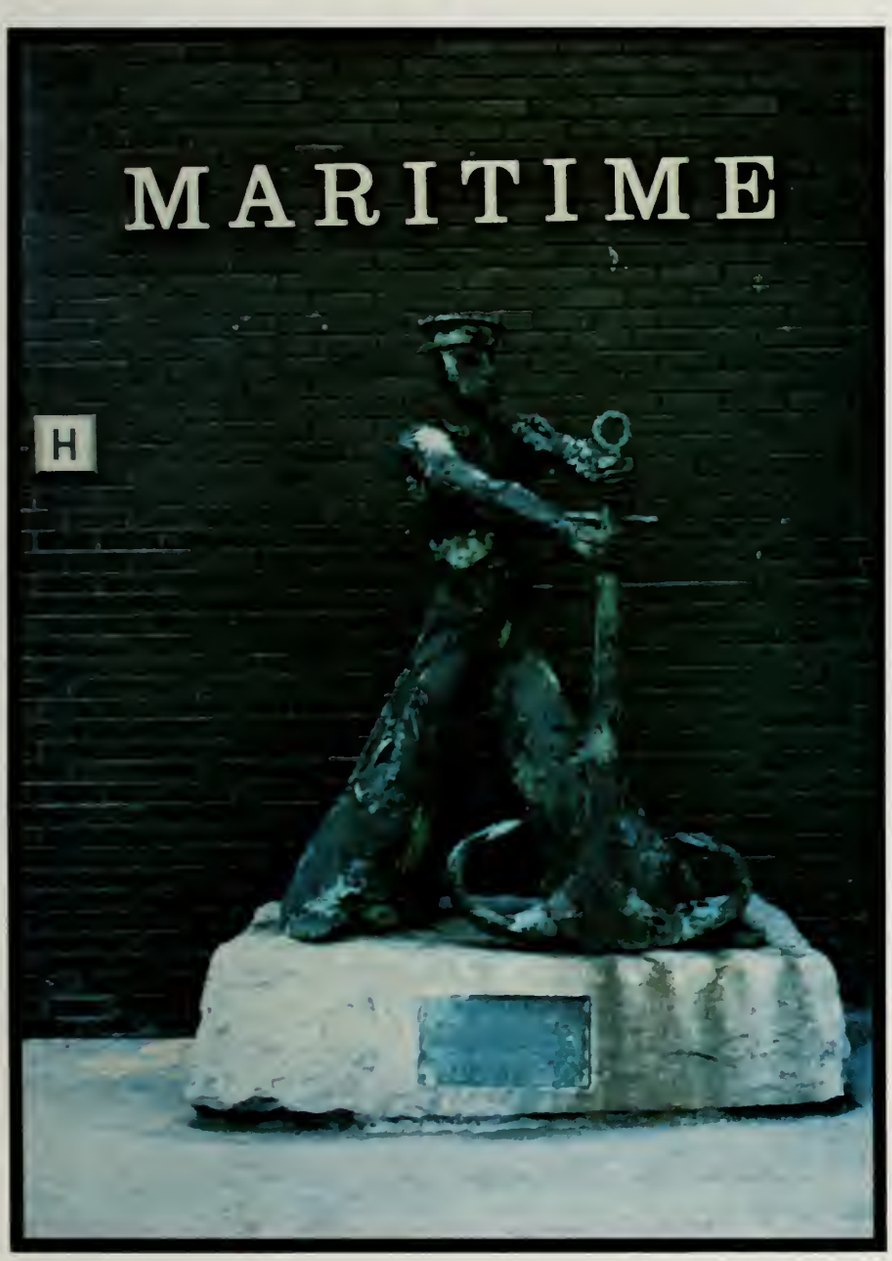
CHRISTIAN RADICH

When the parade was over, the tall ships went to the West Side and we went back to Bayonne to disembark the V.I.P.'s. It now became obvious to us that our primary mission on this cruise was to be public relations rather than professional training. We realized, too, that this will benefit the school.

Because of the unfavorable docking conditions at Bayonne, the Academy administration decided we should leave New York earlier than planned. On our way to Buzzard's Bay, we resumed our duties as youngies, which included cleaning and preparing the ship for our next assignment: host for the Boston tall ships parade. After several days in Buzzard's Bay, we proceeded to Boston, where the cadets participated in the festivities or went home.

Philadelphia, our last port of call, found us again at a navy base, where we had the opportunity to work aboard navy vessels, and, for a few of us, the chance to work closely with navy officials. The city, which few of us had ever seen before, was of interest because it is America's birthplace. It was an appropriate port for the Bicentennial Year.

All in all, we had a good time, but our condition as "Youngies" stifled some of our expectations. We had grown mentally. We had resentments, but also some good memories. We were relieved that we had made it through the crucial "Youngie" year. Little did we know what the future held in store for us.



CRUISE OF '77

Our second class year began with our first cruise to Europe. Unforseen shipyard delays postponed our departure for many weeks. More important than the financial problems and uncertainties that this situation caused the cadets was the fact that three key professional faculty members left the Academy. When we finally departed for Northern Europe, we concentrated on feelings of great expectations, hoping that nothing else would go wrong.

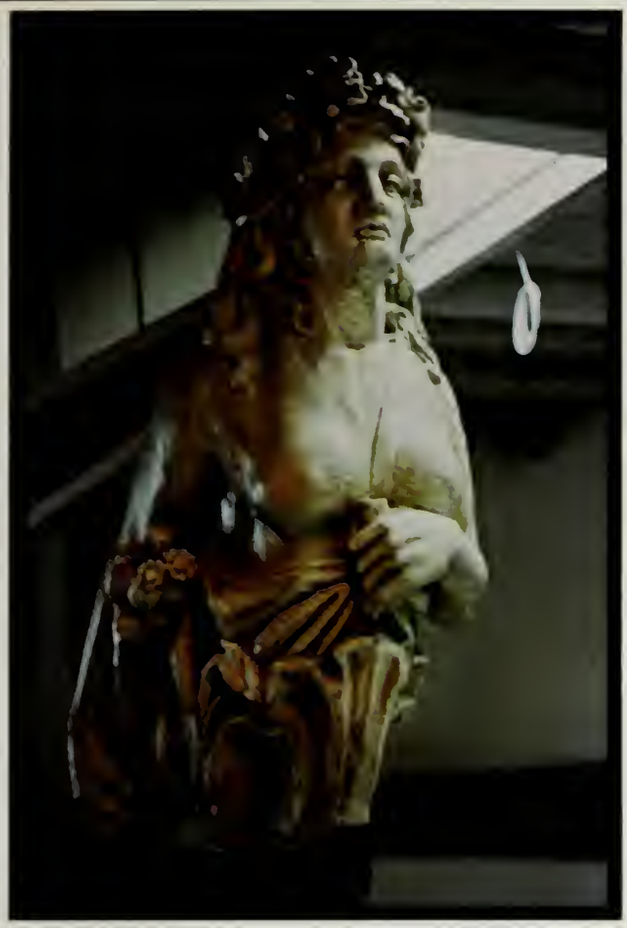
Some of our classmates "shipped out" on commercial vessels, either for experience or so they could participate in the Marine Corps P.L.C. program.

Our North Atlantic passage offered no surprises, enabling us to concentrate on professional training. We welcomed the chance, especially since our "Youngie" cruise had given us little opportunity for such training. We were also given a chance to exercise some leadership responsibilities.

Our first port, Dublin, held special significance for those cadets of Irish heritage. Besides being a relatively cheap port where we could buy gifts for friends back home, Dublin was our first opportunity to meet people of a different culture. Many cadets left the city to visit relatives they had never seen before. A few of the more adventurous ones went to Northern Ireland and saw physical evidence of the conflict there. A few of us got pushed into rather humorous incidents with the locals which ended up in the papers. Our popularity did not wane, however, and we left with memories of a hospitable port.

On our way to Lieth, Scotland, we passed through the Straits of Dover. The weather was unusually good, allowing us a magnificent view of the White Cliffs. The city of Lieth was disappointing, abounding in such points of interest as Tower Tavern, a place not worth describing. Consequently, most of us migrated to Edinburgh and other sights, such as Loch Ness. The castles reminded us of tales of days of yore, and secretly we wished a princess in distress would appear so we could fight for her honor. Our dreams of glory went unfulfilled, and we forced ourselves to return to the Bay State with its chipping, painting, and watches.

On our way to Copenhagen, smiles reflecting "lust in our mind" could be seen on every face. We were not disappointed. The freespirited atmosphere of this great city enraptured us all. Beautiful and clean, it provided innumerable variations of entertainment. The fast pace of Tivoli Gardens excited us all, and the many beaches offered a unique opportunity to get better acquainted with a culture we had heard so much about. Several cadets took a hydrofoil to Sweden, and others visited a commune near the naval base at Copenhagen. Both were interesting adventures.



As we waved goodbye to the mermaid and promised that we would return some day, we were disappointed to learn that our berth in Hamburg was lost, due to our delays in Boston. It was obvious, however, that our alternate port, Cruxhaven, would be our friendliest port of call. What the city couldn't provide with its beaches, shops, and friendly atmosphere was given to us by means of free transportation to and from Hamburg. Those who went there will always remember its enormous port, as well as Herbertstrasse and all it had to offer. Our farewell to Cruxhaven was also our farewell to Europe.

We had a long trip aboard the Bay State ahead of us, but the next stop was home, and that made all the difference. The fact that we pulled into the wrong side of Commonwealth Pier made no difference; we were back and it felt great, even though we still had to bring the ship back to Buzzard's Bay and start orientation and the school year without a break.

CRUISE OF '78

And the day we had all dreamed of finally arrived: the beginning of our first class cruise. Unfortunately, this year, as in the previous year, we were delayed, even though the ship was taken to shipyard earlier. Looking back at the problems we had prior to departure, it seems incredible that with useless boiler tubes, an ancient ship, and professional teachers resigning, we finally made it to the Mediterranean.

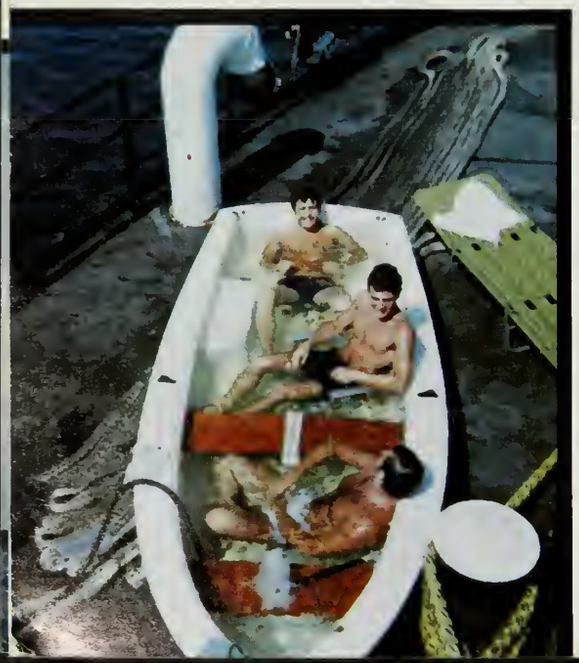
Our last cruise on the BAY STATE represented not only privileges like liberty in civilian clothes and no in-port maintenance, but opportunity to exercise professional knowledge and responsibility over underclassmen during watch. This would be our last chance to test our abilities as watch standing officers. One third of our class (was given the chance to) accomplished this by shipping commercially.

As the Pillars of Hercules loomed before us, a sense of History engulfed us. We were entering the waters of Columbus, Magellan and Nelson, and the same spirit of adventure and discovery that moved them, was with us. Due to the unfortunate illness of a cadet, we were forced to make a short stop in Gibraltar. We were captured by it. Barcelona presented our first chance to release energy accumulated during our 17-day Atlantic passage. The language problems were somewhat lessened by the Spanish classes held during the crossing. The beaches, the sidewalk cafes, the excitement of the bullfights and the senoritas walking along "las Ramblas", created an enhancing atmosphere.

On our way to Naples, Italy, we went through the Strait of Bonifacio, between Sardinia and Corsica, birth place of Napoleon. Naples, besides giving some cadets the opportunity to make "excellent business deals" with the local con-artists, gave us a view of the famous Cameo Factories and a taste of Italian food. From Naples, we could go to nearby Capri, ancient and dreamlike Pompeii, with the Vesuvius in the background, and take a train to glorious Rome and the breathtaking Vatican.

The next leg of our voyage was characterized by the persistant dry heat which seemed to increase as we approached Greece. Pireas, our destination, greeted us with a view of an ancient civilization. From here it was very easy to venture into Athens with its magnificent Acropolis and historic sights. By now we had become accustomed to the problems with the water and the spontaneous running accompanied by it. Nothing was more colorful and exciting then the trips by hydrofoil to the beautiful white sand beaches on the many islands of the Aegean.

With the taste of ouzo and shish kebab still in our mouths, we departed the Lands of the Gods and headed towards our last port: Palma de Maiorca. This island paradise astounded us with its picturesque setting, cosmopolitan beaches and night life. By the end of the first day, the island swarmed with cadets on mo-peds, enjoying themselves thoroughly. After 4 short days, we waved "adios" to Palma and the Mediterranena.



Our voyage home gave us much time for reflection about the cruise, our past and future. We had come a long way during our three years as cadets — from scared, unsure youngies to experienced leaders. We had encountered many obstacles we hated at the time; now we know that they had taught us a lesson: Life is full of disappointments and our success depends on our ability to overcome them. We had indeed come a long way . . . successfully.

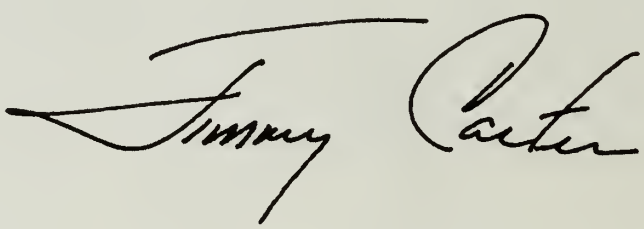
TO THE 1979 GRADUATES OF
MASSACHUSETTS MARITIME ACADEMY

Our Nation has placed special emphasis on education because we believe in each individual's worth and potential. Your years of education have added skills and knowledge to your innate abilities, through which you have developed your talents. I hope those years have also developed your powers to think independently and your ability to discipline yourself to work toward important goals, as well as preparing you to bring new perspectives and fresh insights to the challenges of today and the future.

As educated citizens, you have a special responsibility to the United States and to a world in which not all people have the freedom, opportunities or material blessings our people enjoy. It is necessary to safeguard and preserve the heritage we value and to extend the frontiers of human knowledge, understanding and human rights. There is much exciting and important work to be done, and I encourage you to explore thoroughly all the avenues open to you.

I congratulate you all on your achievements and wish you well.



Congratulations

To the Class of 1979:

Best of luck to all of you as you embark on a most worthwhile career in the Merchant Marine.

You have worked long and hard the past four years, and have every reason to be extremely proud of your accomplishments.

It has given me a great deal of pleasure to meet with many of you personally over the past few years in my visits to the Academy. During each of those visits, I have been extremely impressed with both the caliber of students in attendance and the fine facilities offered. You can indeed look back with pride at the years you have spent in Buzzards Bay at one of the nation's finest maritime academies.

Again, my best to all of you.

With warm regards.

Sincerely,

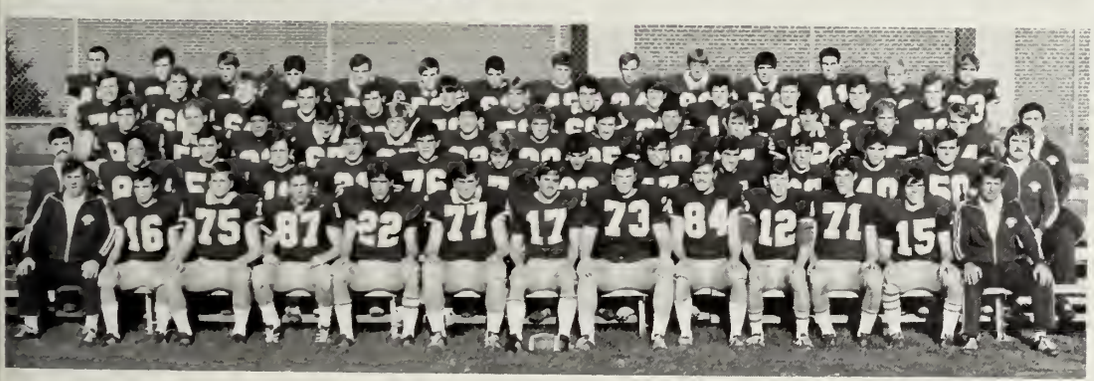
1978-1979
SEASONAL RECAP

FOOTBALL (6-3) 2nd in New England Football Conference.

Coach Don Ruggeri's Bucs found themselves faced with a severe task — a FIRST in Academy history — that of beginning a season in defense of a Conference Championship. Tri-Captains Dan McGuiggan, Jim Moore and Mark Battista assumed the leadership role essential to a strong program and led their youthful teammates to a strong 2nd-place finish in the rugged New England Conference. Scoring victories over conference rivals Bridgewater State, Plymouth State, Framingham State, Nichols and Maine Maritime (as well as a 28-0 conquest of Plattsburgh State of New York), the Buc Gridders outscored their opponents 164-130 over the course of the season.

Leading the way offensively for MMA was Soph FB Mike Quinn, who amassed 967 yards on the ground, good for 9th in the nation and an Academy single-season record. Mike, a native of Wakefield, Ma., also led the team in scoring with 66 points. Against Framingham State Mike established single-game records with 202 yards rushing and 4 TD's. 1979 Tri-Capt.-elect Chris Roller (Milford, Ct.) led the nation in Interceptions with 9, an average of 1 per game.

With a strong recruiting year and 46 returning veterans, Ruggeri's troops appear ready to challenge for the Conference Title again in '79.



Soccer

The Massachusetts Maritime Academy season got underway with a scrimmage with Assumption College of Worcester. Coach Hendy played the whole squad in losing 6 to 1.

An excellent inter-squad game was played on September 13th, when the Freshmen met the Upper Class. Both teams displayed excellent skills and determination, with the Freshmen finally being victorious 1 — 0.

On October 16th, the "Buccaneers" took on the Coast Guard Academy again losing 4 to 1.

Many of the mistakes of the first game were corrected, and the "Bucs" battled Salem State, only to lose 1 — 0 when a signal mixup in turning the ball back to the goalie resulted in a Salem score.

The next opponent, Curry College, were no match for the "Bucs" as they registered their first win 4 — 0.

Down 2 — 0, the battling "Bucs" scored just before the end of the first half, and then scored two goals in the second half to win its first conference game against Bridgewater State College.

The annual International game with the Soviet Research Vessel "BELOGORSK" resulted in a 7 — 0 win. Pre-game ceremonies included a fine marching and playing performance by the Academy Color Guard and Band. The Band played the National Anthems of both teams, and this was followed by an exchange of gifts between the teams.

The "Bucs next game was against undefeated and second place in the Conference, Westfield State. Taking advantage of a favoring wind, Westfield scored two quick goals in the first half and one in the second to win 3 — 0. Westfield had 18 shots on goal, sixteen coming the first half. The "Bucs" tried to take advantage of the second half wind advantage, putting extreme pressure on Westfield, who held on to win.

On Saturday, October 7th, the "Bucs" nearly upset highly favored Fitchburg State. After two 10 — minute overtime periods, the score remained 2 — 2. Although playing without the services of several key players, the "Buccaneers" came up with their best game to date.

Still playing without the services of several injured players, the "Buccaneers" rolled over Worcester State 5 — 2. Several reserves were able to log some time in this game.

The next two games for the "Bucs" were on the road. On Friday, October 20th, they lost to the Number One Team in the Massachusetts State College Soccer Conference, North Adams State, 5 — 0. North Adams State was also ranked fifth in New England. Only Dartmouth, University of Massachusetts, University of Connecticut, and Boston University ranked ahead of them.

After the game, the team stayed overnight in Brattleboro, Vermont. The next day, the team travelled to Keene State College, Keene, New Hampshire, for a 2:00 P.M. game. The "Bucs" played one of their best games of the season, holding highly rated Keene State to one goal at half time, only to lose 4 — 0. The game was broadcast over a local Keene station before the largest crowd of the season — over 600 people.

The "Bucs" got up steam again "Full Speed Ahead," and sailed over Framingham State 4 — 1. This completed their State College Conference games, ending up sixth with a record of 3 — 4 — 1. The overall record stands at 5 — 6 — 1, and the "Buccaneers" have set a course to even the season's record.

The Massachusetts Maritime Academy Soccer Program is one of several intercollegiate programs designed to assist in the preparation of Cadets to a physically active career In the United States Merchant Marine. The Academy competes in Division III, and is a member of the NCAA, ECAC, ISA, and the Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference.

Commodore William R. Hendy, Jr., Vice-President of the Academy, has taken over the helm of this year's Varsity Soccer Program. He has appointed several volunteer faculty members to assist him in revitalizing soccer as a major sport. They are: CDR William Beninghof, CDR Morris Bosse, and Lt. Henry Lamb. The immediate goal is to have a program second to none in New England.

WRESTLING

(7-7-1)

Outgoing Coach Pete Hexter's Grapplers struggled to a .500 record in dual meets, but still managed to qualify four wrestlers for the Nationals held in Arcata, Calif. Seniors Mike Tobin and Scott DePersis and Sophs Rich Deveaney and Scott Bateman all heade west after rapping up New England Titles in the February tournament hosted by the Academy. The team competed in 7 tournaments and never failed to return without bringing home some hardware to Alumni Gym. The squad suffered a severe blow early in the campaign when Senior Heavyweight Dan McGuiggan was lost for the remainder of the season with a nagging knee ailment. It is difficult to predict the upcoming season's prospects while the coaching situation is still in doubt, but, if tradition holds some weight then we can expect to see strong results on the mat again come next winter.

Lacrosse

Harry Evans' LaxMen came away with a somewhat disappointing season record, but there is cause for great optimism for the future. Thirteen seniors have graduated and the youth will take over in '80. Fourteen returnees will combine with the finest group of recruits ever at the Academy as the Stickmen hope to reverse this season's record. Despite the final outcome of the season, three of the losses suffered were by the score of 8-7 . . . win those three and the record reads 6-5 . . . what a difference a goal makes.

BASKETBALL

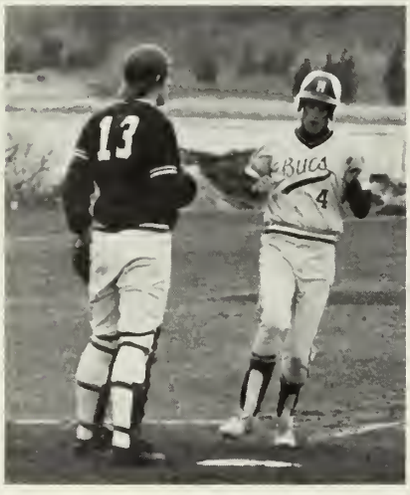
The '78-'79 campaign got off to a tough start as the Bucs dropped three games, two by a total of 4 points. The youthful Bucs rode the leadership of Co-Capts. Gagne and Pumphret and Supersoph Dumais to convincing wins over Worcester State (the 1st ever over the Lancers) and Nichols College before losing two tough ones to a strong SMU quintet and conference favorite Bridgewater State. The pre-Xmas record stood at 2 up and 5 down with three of the losses by a total of 5 points.

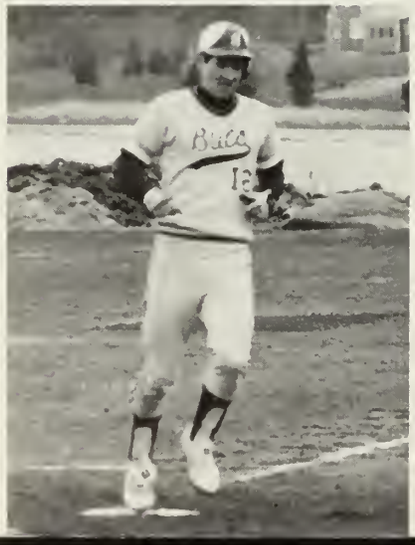
Thompson's troops came back from the holiday break and promptly won 4 out of 5 to reach the .500 mark at the mid-season point and the confidence seemed to be building. Then disaster struck. MMA traveled to Curry College where Coach Karl Fogel's scrappy Colonels scratched and bit their way to a 73-63 triumph over the Bucs. The young Academy quintet then had their jocks handed to them five more times before coming out of the doldrums with an 83-66 win over a tough Westfield State club back home at Alumni Gym. This win started a 4-2 seasonal windup, climaxed by a thrilling 67-65 conquest of Bridgewater State on the Bears home court thereby knocking them out of the top spot in the Conference and eliminating them from the NCAA Playoffs.

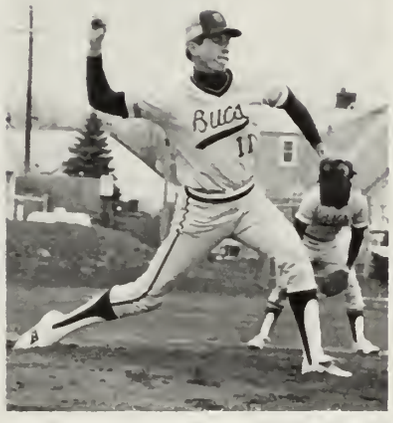
Baseball

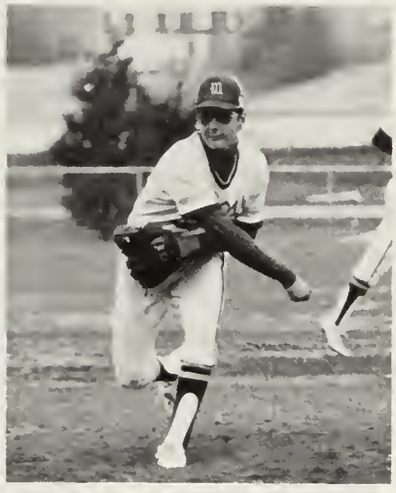
The Massachusetts Maritime Academy Baseball Team finished its season winning three out of four games. The Bucs travelled to New London, Connecticut and (behind the pitching of Mike Burt and the hitting of Chris Roller and John Whorf) beat Academy rival Coast Guard Academy 6 — 2. The team returned home and banged out 15 hits beating M.I.T. 20 — 11. The Bucs had not beaten M.I.T. previously. The following day the Bucs entertained North Adams State winning the first game 5 — 2, and dropping the second half 4-3. It was the first time after 10 straight loses to North Adams ending a very successful season for the Bucs.

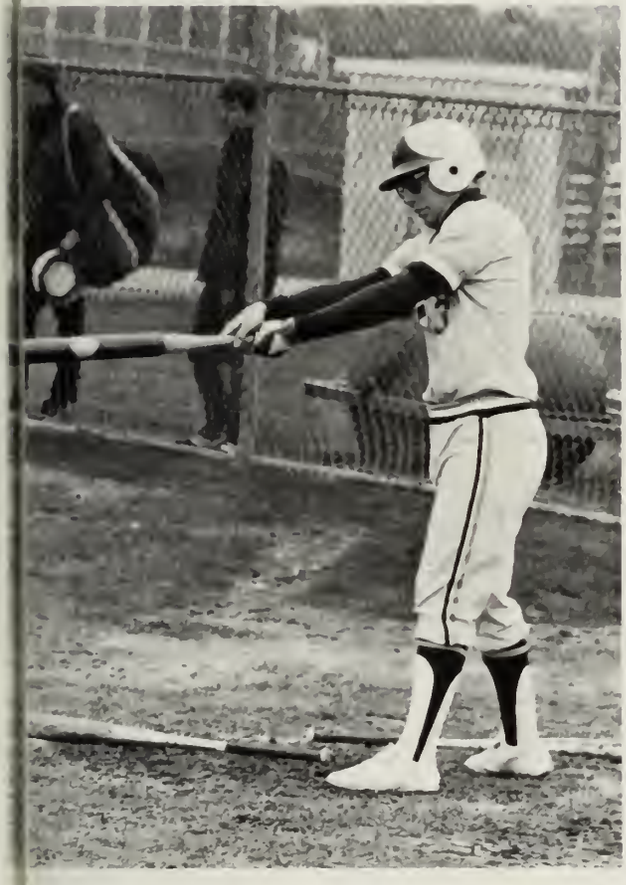
The Baseball program at the Massachusetts Maritime Academy may be only six years old, but it has made a complete reversal under the direction of Coach Bob Corradi and his Assistant Bill Wixon. In 1973 Bob came from the High School ranks to begin a Collegiate program at the new land campus of the Academy. The initial season was a most difficult one for the Bucs with a 3 — 17 record. The club steadily improved and last season the team posted a 20 — 15 record and was ranked 10th in New England Division III. Today the club finished its season with an even more impressive record of 23 — 6 and the reversal will be complete with a N.C.A.A. or E.C.A.C. Tournament bid.











The Season's Highlights

The 100th career Victory for Bob Corradi and overall record of 106 — 98. He is 44 — 20 over the last 2 seasons.

The Team is presently ranked #4 in the Coaches New England polls Division III.

The Team came in second in the Massachusetts State College Conference with an 11 — 4 record.

The team is ranked Nationally in Team Batting, Team Pitching, Team Scoring and in 2 individual categories.

The team has a starting four pitching staff of Burt 7 — 2 (2.73 ERA), Yetten 4 — 0 (1.25 ERA), Cabucio 4 — 1 (1.80 ERA), and Rollins 3 — 0 (1.38 ERA).

The Team has 4 hitters in the starting lineup hitting 400+.

Chris Yetten and Rich Cox have both been selected Conference Player of the Week.

Rich Cox has been selected New England Division III Player of the Week.

Four out of the six losses were decided by 1 run.

Tennis

(0-9)

Charlie Freedman's team underwent a rough season overall, but there were some bright spots. Junior Paul Wei was the leading point-getter and he heads a cast of 10 returnees. The prospectus is optimistic for bettering the record in the '79 season.

Farrell Lines.
We're routing for you.

All over the world.

Since Farrell Lines acquired American Export Lines last year, we've not only added 24 fast, modern ships to our fleet, we've also added most of the world to our trade routes.

Direct, time-saving routes. To the Mediterranean, Middle East, Far East, South Asia, North Europe and the UK. Joined now to our regular service to South, West and East Africa, Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific Islands.

With Minibridge service linking U.S. West and Gulf Coast ports to North Europe/The UK, The Mediterranean, South and East Africa. And regular weekly sailings from East Coast ports.

We go out of our way not to take you out of yours—with pinpoint planning that gets your shipment from point A to point B, almost anywhere in the world, in the swiftest, straightest line.

Call your nearest Farrell Lines office. Wherever you're shipping, whatever you're shipping, we've probably got the route that's right for you.

In the Tradition of Great American Seamanship
